Motorcycle Track	Competitive cultures can reduce the likelihood of athletes speaking up when they have concerns Competitive cultures can normalise emotionally abusive practices	Unlikely	Minor	High	Coaches will champion a set of core values that inform Race Pace approach to child safety. Coaches demonstrate attitudes and behaviours that prioritise the safety of children through the behaviours and practices they reward and challenge. This includes calling out behaviours that do not support child safety or foster a negative competitive environment, such as threatening a rider's success if they speak out about things that concern them. It will also include encouraging a culture of reporting.	Acceptable
